

(3)

One reason I respect and like her so well is that I know she would never allow anyone to get too familiar. Any girl that hasn't got pretty high ideals would never get a second thought from me. (Probably wouldn't want one either.) I don't know why I am writing this to you — I guess it's because I want you to know one reason why you have "wrapped yourself completely around my heart", as Blanche puts it. Everything that I have learned about you has increased my respect and love for you. The reason I know I will always love you is