After an hour of snappy drill on "Shank's horses" the fifth section and a few others went to the stables and saddled the horses.

We have 34 borrowed saddles now so we had a pretty good column, riding single file, each man leading an extra horse, or pack mule. We went out in the hills which are heavily wooded. Gee, it was great riding that morning; the weather couldn't have been better. The lieutenant got lost once and had to ask a party of Engineers,
