Serint. Butler said that the fellows were letting too many mules get away, and that the next fellow that let go of the rope before falling from the saddle, was going to hear from him. My reputation for hanging on to my mule or least-horse is without a spot so far, but yours truly is going to kiss that mule goodbye before he will do any Charlie Chaplin fluff on the cold, cold ground.

Saturday I was on kitchen police duty and we didn't have any fire in the dining room at
