THE UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS.

LIBRARIAN'S OFFICE.

Lawrence, 1890.

of the students of the University of Kansas and of the Continental Congress. I accept this gift. You flatter us by presenting this album & the photographs flatter you. Whenever we gaze upon these pictures we shall always remember you and Mettner.

To those that follow you in the deep worn paths of literature and science, this book will be most valuable. When the momentous days of January and June are upon them; when, like you they have spent day and night in the ceaseless search for knowledge (for a whole week), this will brighten the flickering flame of hope. Here are faces that have been through the same battles and have come forth unscarred; here are faces without a trace of anxiety. Their faint-hearts will be strengthened and in the conflict at hand, they will not stop to consider how much of the calm, unruffled expression is due to the photographer's art.

Personally I am proud to have been made the custodian of this handsome and valuable book for I am always interested in developing the picturesque
