and that you had bin Secretario to the Cardinall Emyse and therefore could not tell what practise you might make against her. Yeer she said she knewe not Babbington nor Ballard Lo: Trer The Lord Trer said Maddam I will tell yu wyem yu knowe Morgan that cyrod Parry to kill the Queene, and after yu knewe it yu gave Emi a pension to murther her.

Lo: of Scote Yes said he gate lost all for my sake, and therefore I thought it belonged to my honour to relieve Eme, but saite she, there gate bin pensions given to my enemies in Scotland against me, and to the Kinge my sonne and Lo: Trer The Lord Trer said the Queene because the reuemes of the Crowne of Scotland are diminished, quote yu sum a benevolence bringe her Matie kinsman, but no pension

Lo: of Scote The Queene of Scotts the second day bringe Saturday at her first commyge rendered her first petisioun, saynge, I am a sacred and amointed Queene and ought not to be iudged by any lawe, I am a free Prince, and owe noe more to any Prince then they owe to me, I stand Either for the justificatiow of my honour

honour, and that wte is laid to my charge against my sister: her oration was very longe and of same matter I might she said that the Queene was so dealt wte upon the matter of Wyat was laid to her charge, and was not guiltie of it, she said she liked not the course to overthrowe her sister, altheuge she desired to have the Catholiques from sorrow, and that she had rather play the part of Hester then of Judith to pray, note she for my people, then to take any awaie, and to deliver my people: God forbidd that I should deserve to be denyed of Jesus Christ before his father, they gave it out that I was of noe Religion neither: did they, over seeke to drawe me to their Religion: for there was a time when I tendered my selfe but they raged not for my sinne; But my Lords, when yu have done all yu can, and have sent me from that I should have, yet shall yu not obtaine yu purpose of Mary Stuart and heere she wept and blubbered, that they could not contrive her death. Then she said, I desire that another assemblie may be