a pardon for all their treasons, secondly a tollerasion of the Romish Religion (which their Eyes shall sooner fall out then ever see) for the King hath spoken those words in the hearing of many, I will lose my life & my treasure before I will alter Religion And thirdly to remove Counsellors / In the roome of the Counsellors they would have placed a Priest, one Watson absurd in humanitie and ignorant in divinitie / Brooke must bee Treasurer of whome I will say nothing / The Secretarie of the State must bee Marchum, oculus Patriæ a hole must bee found in my Lo: Bishop Justice his coate, Cray must bee Earle Marshall and Mr. of the Horse, because hee could have a Table in the Courte, Mary shee would advance Worcester to better place, all this cannot bee done without a multitude / Therefore Watson the Jesuist telleth a resolute man, that the King is in danger of Puritans and Jesuites, see to bring him blindfolde into the Arrow, saying further that the King is noe King till hee bee Crowned, and therefore ditie man might right his crowne wrong, but hee

but hee is Lex natus his dignitie descended as well as ours my Lords / then Watson in= sooth a blasphemous Death that they should swoore to defend the King's person, to beare arms what was ye then in Arms to speake by all wayes and meanes to advance the Catholique Religion / then they intended to send for the Lord Maior and the Aldermen in the Kings name to the Tower and least they should make any resistance there to take Hostages of them, and drive them to provide for them victuall and Munition, Cray (because the King remained before Midsum) had a further reach to get a Company of Sword men to assist the Arrow, therefore hee would stay till hee had obtained a Regiment from Austria / so that ye see those Treasons were like Sampsons Flaxen, which were wrung by the Tailes, though the heads were sewed /.

You sent of the fury, I pray you remem= =ber this, I am not charged with the Bye being the Treason of the Jesuite /.

You were not / (my Lords) you shall observe three things in the Treason, first they had a reasonable (the Kings safety) their Arrow was Bonum in se, but their intent was malum
