also I would speake what bee came on it but seeing hee is compact of pride and Injustice, and one that will not mistake a man for speaking the truth I will answer your question, Sr Walter Rawleigh was stayd by me at Winsor upon the first warrant of Cobham that the Kings pen should bee subscribed by my Lord Cromp and mr George Brooke; when I found Brooke was in it, I supported Cobham and doubted Rawleigh to bee a traitor / I speake not this that it should bee thought that I had greater judgment then the rest of my Lords in making this hastie to hand them apprehend Rawleigh following to Winsor, I mett with him upon the Terrace and willed him off from the King to stay, saying the Lords had something to say to him then hee was examined but not touching my Lord Cobham, but of the surprising treason, my Lord Cromp was apprehended and likewise Brooke, by Brooke was found that hee had given notice to Cobham of the surprising treason as hee delivered it unto us but with a mutiny sparing of a brother as hee might, was sent for the Lord Cobham to Richmond where hee stood stood upon his justification and on his qualitie sometyme being froward, hee said hee was not bound to subscribe wherewith was arraigned the King, then hee said if my Lord Chiefe Justice would say it were a contempt hee would subscribe, whereupon being replied hee subscribed / There was a light given to Aremberge that Lawrency was apprehend but that Sr Rawleigh knew that Cobham was apprehend was more then I know /.

If my Lord Cobham trusted mee in the Mayne, was I not as fitt a man to bee trusted in the Bye /. Raw:

Rawleigh did by his bad argument to prove that my Lord Cobham had Lawrency to Aremberge when hee knew not that was had ought dealing with him /. Lo: Cecill.

It had made for you if Lawrence had beene onely acquainted with Cobham and not with you, but you knew of his whole Estate and were acquainted with Cobhams practise with Lawrence, and it was known to you before that Lawrency departed of Aremberge /. Lo: Hen: Howard.

If Sr Rawleigh replieth as aught the surprising treason, Secondly that hee knew not of the matter touching Arbella, I would Attor:
