in the Kings service makes me speak this /.

Raw: Whosoever is the workman, it is reason he should account of his works to the workman. but lett it be proved that ever he acquainted me with ought of his Conference with Aremberge and if I had sett him on worke, he would surely have spared me some account of his worke /.

Lo: Cecill. Nay that followed not, if I sett yo on worke, and you gave me no account, am I therefore guiltye /.

Attor: For the Lady Arbella, I said she was now acquainted with the matter. Now that Rawleyg hath had Conference with all those Treasons, it is manifest to the Jury, who have heard out the matter, my Lords here is one Dyer a Gyllott who being in Lisbourne met with a Portugall gent that asked him if the King of England were Crowned, To whome he Answered I think not yet, but he shalle shortly, Nay saith the Portugall that shalle neve be for his throat willbe rutt with Don Rawleigh and Don Cobham before hee be crowned / Here was Dyer called and sworne /.

Dyer / I came to a Marchants house in Lisbourne to sell a boy I had there, And there came a gent into the house, and enquired of me what Countryman I were / I said of England of England, then he asked me if the King were Crowned, I Answered me, but I hoped he should be shortly, nay saith he Portugall he shall neve be Crowned for Don Rawleigh and Don Cobham willrutt his Throate before the day cometh /.

Raw: What inferre you upon this?

Attor: That your Treason hath wings /.

Raw: If Cobham had Contrib with Aremberge, how could it not be Treason in Spaine. And why did they name the Duke of Buckingham to be in the Rebellion with Jack Straw, and the Duke of Yorke with Jack Cade, were it not to Countenance their Treason? you gent of the Jury, I pray you Consider there is no reason so doubtfull which the King Counsell cannot make good against the law consider my disabilitie and their Abilitie, they prove nothing against me, only they bring in the Confession wt he hath repented, and lamented as heartily as though it had been a Terrible murther for he knew that all this sorrow which should come unto me were by his meanes, Presumption must proceed from ground or subsequent Force / I have spent 40000li against the Spaniard, I gave not purchased forty pounds a yeare if I had dyed in Guyana I had not left 300. li a yeare to my wife
