Such areas should held inviolate to human trespass so that posterity may have an opportunity to view them as nature intended them to be. Development of the areas inevitably mean a change in the fauna & flora.

On the return trip saw mother grouse and 3 or 4 of her young.

7-8-39. Leaving Bellingham for Slide, Oreg. On way our departure took picture of Mr. & Mrs. Fowler and our own crew at front gate. (1-7-8-39)

Mr. Fowler is highly in favor of organized labor and personally belongs to the union. It is definitely helping the employee he claims. At this time, however, there is not the balance established between the consumer and the employee & employer.

at Bellingham collected three Thamnophis from along the creek in the south section of town. Nos. (3-7-8-39), 13;

(3-7-8-39) 14; and (4-7-8-39) 15. The last snake from

Chuckanut. Our first stop after leaving Bellingham was at <sup>Centralia, Wash.</sup> ~~Seattle~~ near Albany, where we stopped overnight for a few minutes to investigate the possibility of locating the yacht belong to a friend of Mils. We found it and

On ridge where one can see mt. Baker to the south. mt. Baker <sup>and south</sup> not visible but to the left of picture. This area must certainly be a skiers paradise with the lodge so near these snow fields. Witness one slide of one of the side walls not far from where a few skiers were enjoying mid-summer skiing. I do hope that these mountaneous areas can be always kept in their virgin state.
