and pay unto them 300 of lawfull money of England. And thereupon ye said Orator sued two Replevins out of the Court of the Sheriffes of London against the detainers and seizers, to replevy the said goods, and found pledges sufficient to execute the same Replevins, to make returns of the same goods, yf returns therefore should bee to them demanded.
And thereupon the said Abraham Dawes and Richard Warmartyn, wch purposed to prevent the due execution of the said writtes, and to w^th^hold the said goods from ye Orator, came before the Barons of the Court the xxv^th^ daie of Januarie in Hillarie tearme last past in the fourte yeare of the Matie raigne, and tooke their corporall oathes that ye Sheriffes said Orator dyd on the 29th day of the same monethe of Januarie come to the Customehouse of London, and there demanded of them certaine goods and marchandizes, then remaynings in the Kings Storehouse upon Customehouse key, and showed unto them the said

Abraham Dawes and Richard Warmartyn a paper wch ye Orator called a Replevyn and brought one Phillipps an Officer to the Sheriffes of London, to execute the same, but the said Phillipps refused to doo it. And thereupon at the motion of the Maties Attorney generall for the reasons by him showed it was the same 30th day of Januarie ordered and declared by the Court, that the Sheriffes officers of London should not execute any kinde of Replevyn, brought by plaintiff by and upon for delivery of goods as aforesaide bringe in the Kings Storehouse, and the owne possession, but the writes were to take sure course for the same, yf they were wrongfully detayned as the lawe doth allowe. In consideration whereof and for that nothinge is doe unto the Matie out of or for the same goods by the lawes and customs of this Realme that ye Orator knowethe of. And for that ye Orator is willinge and readye to pay whatsoever is due by lawe and custome whereever the same shalbee