

8. Collected sparrow hawk and varied thrush at mouth of Colville River.
9. When ice pack is in near shore the seal are more numerous.
10. Lemmus numerous at Pitt Point and Saktuina Point.
11. Walrus and skeleton observed along beach (see map Sept. 8, 1952) at Pitt Point.

Point Barrow, 71°23'12", 156°27'33", 12 ft., Alaska.

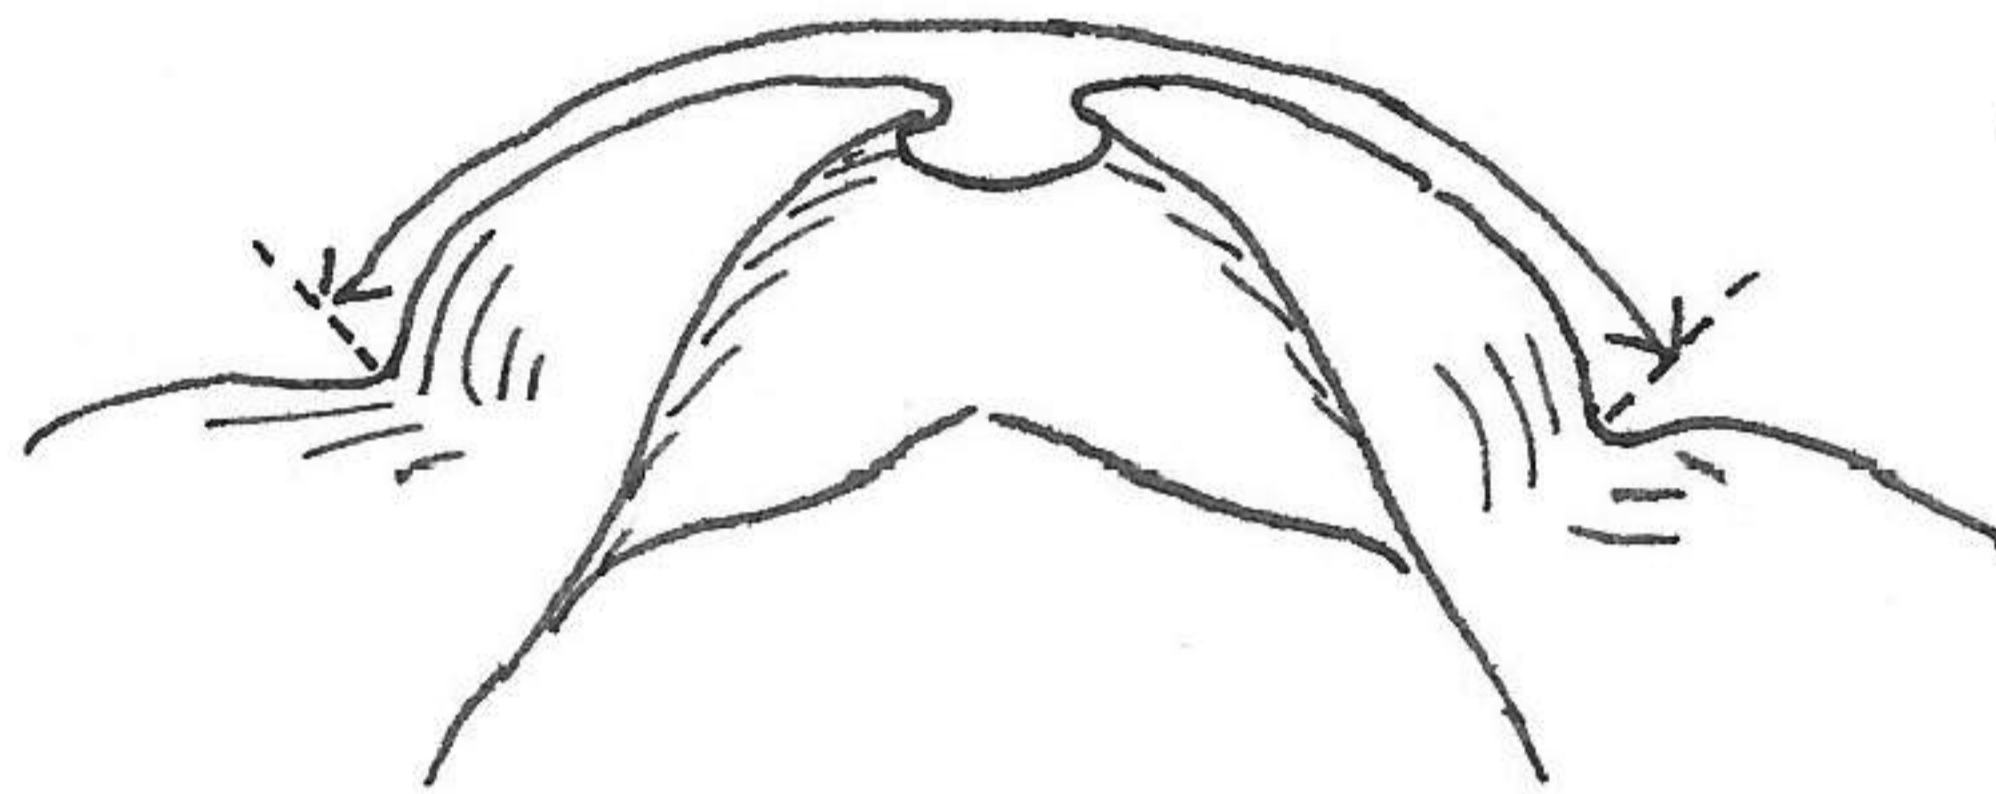

Sept 11, 1952

At most northern point of Alaska measured several Balaena mysticetus skulls and lower rami to determine age groups of population of whales kill by Eskimos for food. The skulls and rami were from houses and those lying on the ground near houses. Measurements were as follows:

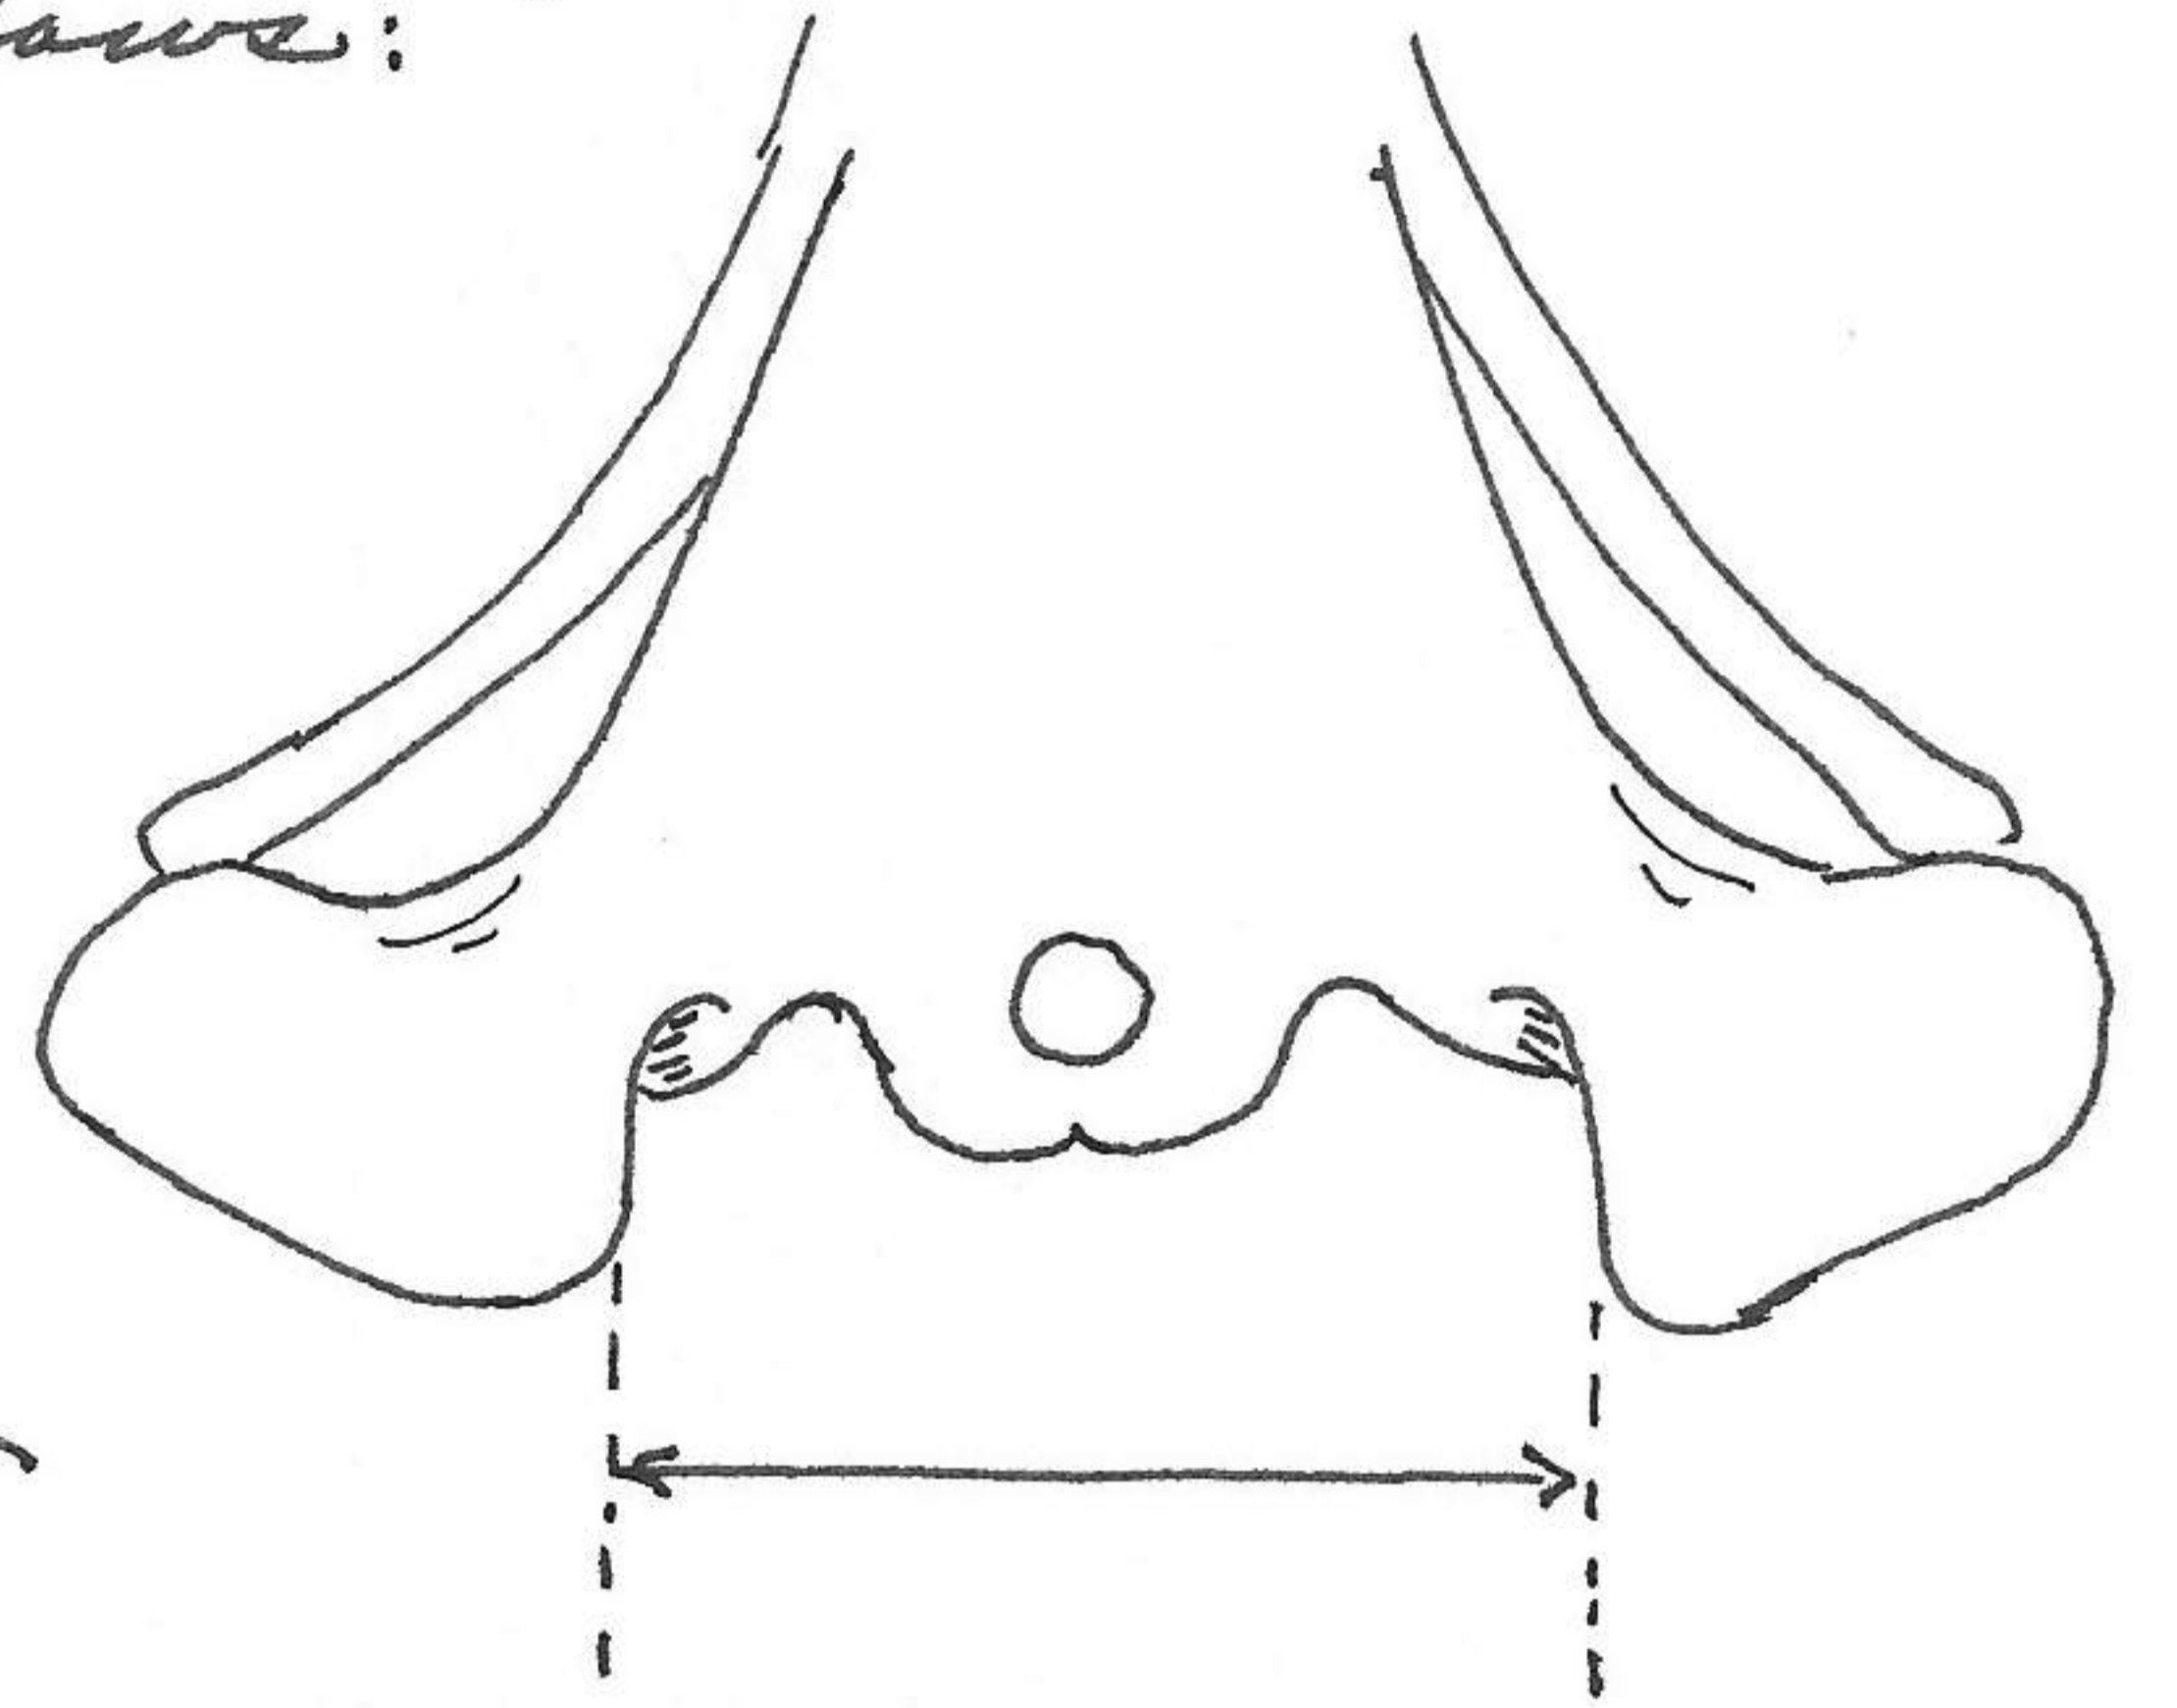

Diameter rami

- 241
- 220
- 320
- 248
- 295
- 330
- 530
- 250
- 260
- 366
- 230
- 221
- 270
- 260
- 252
- 330
- 220
- 323
- 450
- 320
- 386
- 292
- 250
- 245
- 240
- 273
- 261
- 218
- 235
- 295
- 201
- 207
- 243
- 239

curvature outer condyles

inner squamosal distance

310	682
320	684
310	670
330
325
	550
350	580
332
333
333
339
333
340
310
345
310
375	780
305
370	670
300
365

Where skull measurements are on same line they are of the same skull.