

worked in the latter part of January or February. The roads outside of the village are quite muddy and in addition, it has been raining about eight times a day, every day. You can imagine what this condition would do to a trap line.

How is my good family getting along? I hope to hear from you when I get to Guatemala City. Better get Polly conditioned to the telephone because it just may be that a call can be sent through from Guatemala some day in the future.

Still living out of my suitcase. It certainly is a good thing that you put the Spanish books there.

Love to all,

James.
