

If zoological or botanical specimens are shipped air freight from Guatemala, they should be sent to the United States Customs nearest to Provo, probably Salt Lake City, and labelled thus:

To be held in bond at U.S. Customs at Salt Lake City, Utah.

Either you or an appointed Customs House Broker can then clear them through the Customs. If not so stipulated, the specimens will be retained at New Orleans Customs and clearance will be delayed by endless correspondence.