

East Arm Lameshur Bay, St. John Island, Virgin Islands.

July 28, 1957

Lameshur Bay is divided into 3 arms: Europa to the West, middle arm of Lameshur Bay and East arm of Lameshur Bay:

All references to Lameshur Bay = middle arm of Lameshur Bay. Europa and East arm Lameshur Bay are referred to by their specific names. Lameshur is the Estate House area, specifically the range station there.

All shells, ^{and other marine specimens saved for collection} were collected at the middle arm of Lameshur Bay and given the field no 570728-37. The purpose is to generate a list of names of organisms from one restricted area of the island as a basis for judging change in community composition according to time. Large numbers of some species were collected at random for size determination within a single species. The specimens represent average preservation of shells on the beaches.
