

Sept. 4, 1957

570804-104

Problems that seem worthy of analysis.

1. Taxonomic variation, distribution and habits of the amphibians and reptiles of St. John Island and its outlying islets.
2. List of fishes collected from Lameshur Bay, St. John Island, Virgin Islands.
3. Per cent frequency of mollusks in East Lameshur Bay, St. John Island, and a statistical analysis of the four most common forms (individual variation, growth curve, size versus weight of shell, age groups, significance of marking as adaptive survival).
4. A bat, Stenoderma rufum, from St. John Island, giving complete description of skin, skull, and habits and a review of the history of the species.
5. Key and description of bats of the genera Brachyphylla, Artibeus, Molossus, Tadarida and Nautilus from St. John Island. Compare.
6. Similarities and dissimilarities between St. John and Puerto Rico in regard to suitability of habitat for subrecent forms.
7. Reconstruction of old Danish culture from surface artifacts collected on Little St. James Island.
8. Synonymized - (to Stenoderma)
  - Ardeops
  - Phyllaps
  - Ariceps