

Leptodea fragilis (cont.)

Sexual dimorphism can be ascertained by the following measurements:

Two perpendicular measurements (umbo and at notch) appear the same (posterior generally larger).

Two perpendicular lines showing considerable difference in length (the anterior one considerably shorter than posterior one)