

the proposed Clinton Reservoir dam site east of Clinton to the river's mouth on the Kaw River, north of Eudora, Kansas. If definite relationships between populations living and fossilized could be determined, a greater understanding of the possibilities for the original construction of a biome could be inferred from the fossil assemblage found in the geologic record.