

- 720102-21 Fernando and wife
- 720102-22 wines dancing with children. (yellow) arturo's wife.
- 720102-23 children dancing.
- 720102-24 Arturo's twin brother & his brother's wife cleaning table.
- 720102-25 Pinata and children. From smallest to largest child.
- 720102-26 " " "
- 720102-27 " " "
- 720102-28 Fernando on wall controlling pinata position.
- 720102-29 Children scrambling for candy of pinata after the bag was broken.
- 720102-30 Arturo's father at the pinata
- 720102-31 " " and children dancing.
- 720102-32 children at pinata.
- 720102-33 Adults playing cards.
- 720102-24 Raymond, son of Arturo Jimenez (no negative)

The Jimenez family hospitality was warm and family friendship within the "clan" close. Arturo said they tried to have a family "fiesta" once a month to keep up the old Mexican custom of family solidarity. For the new year's midnight celebration they stuffed a large pork roast by making numerous slits ~~in~~ in the muscles & stuffing olives, and peppers, and small onions in the slits. It was roasted in a normal fashion in a regular stove - (electric?). This was prepared entirely by the women of the family with much social reaction and interaction, family gossip, etc.

The ~~next~~ ^{same} day the men prepared 2 barbecues - the first a simple "kabob" type on metal sticks & chunks of pork! and beef alternated with onion and green peppers cooked over an open pit in the court yard using charcoal. The ^{same} day before the men ~~had~~ prepared a cow's heads by skinning them, then washing them, then pickling them and wrapping them first in agave leaves & placing them in gummy bales. These were then placed in a deep pit with hot coals?

1973-88