

* I talked to the carpenters union in Alaska and they were pretty nice. They told me that it would be at least two years before I could join the union. I think I would like a trade skill and my choice would be carpentry. I have worked on a lot of log cabins and I am pretty sure I can build a log cabin. The next step up is a little more sophisticated and I can work on a frame house.