8:30 P.M. Examined a sunflower sea star caught on fish and line below Bee House. It measured 18" diameter. The bait and hook was in stomach of star thus  herring. This star is Pycnopodia helianthoides.

Single harbor seal fed approx. 200' from shore and under water on two consecutive dives for 2 minutes each. On the 3rd dive it swam toward me and fished from shore below Bee House and at 4' from me came to near surface but did break water but produced an upwelling. This occurred 3 times this evening. Did not observe more than 1 seal at a time so it could have been the same animal.
