

1711410/207

33/0

AUG 15, 15

THE NATURAL TRAP--A crew member prepares to enter the Natural Trap through the scaffolding opening the grate, erected to prevent present day Wyoming inhabitants from adding to the specimens. The truck on the rise overlooking the cave is used to rig rope for rappelling into the cave. The Natural Trap is 35 miles northeast of Lovell, Wyo., at an elevation of 4,850 feet.

cls/15aug75/SW

--KU--

Property of
University of Kansas
Archives