

The first and most striking feature of the island is the high and rugged mountains which rise abruptly from the sea. The highest peak is the mountain of St. Peter, which is covered with snow and is visible from all parts of the island. The mountains are very fertile and produce a great variety of fruits and vegetables. The climate is very temperate and the soil is very rich. The people of the island are very industrious and are engaged in various occupations. They are very friendly and hospitable to strangers. The island is very beautiful and is a great resort for tourists. The scenery is very picturesque and the air is very pure. The water is very clear and the fish is very good. The island is a very pleasant place to live and is a great source of food and clothing. The people of the island are very happy and contented. They are very proud of their island and are very loyal to their king. The island is a very important part of the kingdom and is a great source of wealth and power. The king of the island is a very wise and just ruler. He is very kind and merciful to his subjects. He is very brave and courageous. He is very generous and liberal. He is very popular and loved by his people. The island is a very important part of the kingdom and is a great source of wealth and power. The king of the island is a very wise and just ruler. He is very kind and merciful to his subjects. He is very brave and courageous. He is very generous and liberal. He is very popular and loved by his people.