

PH A

Figure 1

In spite of the fact that the United States is the only country in the world that has a state-owned television network, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has been unable to force the network to broadcast news programs. The FCC has been unable to force the network to broadcast news programs because the network is a private corporation. The FCC has been unable to force the network to broadcast news programs because the network is a private corporation.