

TABORNA-RABBIAN, 1900

Basin, 1900

Basin, 1900. The basin is a large, shallow, rectangular, and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin. The basin is made of stone and is surrounded by a low wall. The basin is filled with water and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin.

The basin is a large, shallow, rectangular, and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin. The basin is made of stone and is surrounded by a low wall. The basin is filled with water and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin. The basin is a large, shallow, rectangular, and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin. The basin is made of stone and is surrounded by a low wall. The basin is filled with water and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin.

The basin is a large, shallow, rectangular, and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin. The basin is made of stone and is surrounded by a low wall. The basin is filled with water and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin. The basin is a large, shallow, rectangular, and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin. The basin is made of stone and is surrounded by a low wall. The basin is filled with water and is used for the purpose of washing the hands of the people who come to the basin.