

ARDEA PHALOPHILUS

Ardeidae

Ardeidae

The first of the Ardeidae is the Great Egret, which is found in the marshes of the South Sea Islands. It is a large bird, with a long neck and long legs. It is usually seen standing in the water, with its long neck extended. It feeds on fish and other small aquatic animals. The Great Egret is a very graceful bird, and its movements are very elegant. It is also a very intelligent bird, and it is able to learn from experience. The Great Egret is a very common bird in the South Sea Islands, and it is one of the most beautiful birds in the world. It is a very important part of the ecosystem, and it is a very popular bird among the people of the South Sea Islands. The Great Egret is a very beautiful bird, and it is a very important part of the ecosystem. It is a very popular bird among the people of the South Sea Islands. The Great Egret is a very beautiful bird, and it is a very important part of the ecosystem. It is a very popular bird among the people of the South Sea Islands.