

TRILLIUM RUTICOLOR

Trillium ruticolor

Trillium ruticolor is a perennial herb with a single leaf and a single flower.

The leaves of Trillium ruticolor are elliptical and have a smooth margin. The flowers are white and have a single petal. The fruit is a capsule and is covered with a thin, papery covering.

The plant is found in the mountains of the Pacific Northwest. It is a common plant in the region and is often found in the same places as Trillium ovatum.

The plant is a member of the Ranunculaceae family. It is a perennial herb and is often found in the same places as Trillium ovatum.