

PHILOSOPHY

Yellow Book

This volume contains the first part of the course in philosophy, and is intended for the use of students in the first year of the college. It is divided into two parts, the first of which deals with the general principles of philosophy, and the second with the history of philosophy.

The first part of the course is devoted to the study of the general principles of philosophy. It begins with a discussion of the nature of philosophy, and then proceeds to a consideration of the various branches of philosophy. The second part of the course is devoted to the study of the history of philosophy. It begins with a discussion of the philosophy of the ancient Greeks, and then proceeds to a consideration of the philosophy of the middle ages and the modern period.

The course is designed to give students a general knowledge of the principles and history of philosophy. It is not intended to be a comprehensive study of any one branch of philosophy, but rather a survey of the whole field. The course is suitable for students who are interested in philosophy, and who wish to gain a general knowledge of the subject.
