et at the top: in the interior resented outwards, by which . The interest of this curi-the entrance with the most e Rose-hill and Pennantian k in among the twigs, while propensity of these birds to they always search the ruins accidentally dropped in the tone tomahawk, of an inch ds had doubtless picked up erstood; they are certainly ich, when there assembled, frequently that it is seldom t certain whether the ruins hey are merely resorted to incubation. It was at this s of those I dissected, that as however evident, from e spot had been used as a ing destroyed one of these ructed; the birds engaged n bringing to England two and the other to the collecubject.

ulata and Chlam. nuchalis, arried to a much greater ely resembling satin, with the wing-coverts, second-blue-black lustre; irides to yellow at the tip; legs tail dark sulphur-brown, ne tints as the upper, but lso has a crescent-shaped les of a deeper blue than et yellowish white tinged face of a more greenish ; feet olive brown; bill in the green dress and