

CHAMBERLAIN'S JOURNAL

1840

My dear Sir,
I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th inst. and in reply to inform you that the same has been forwarded to the proper authorities for their consideration.

The first object of the present bill is to amend the law relating to the appointment of judges of the peace. It is proposed that the judges should be appointed by the Crown, and that the law should be amended so as to give the Crown the power to remove them at pleasure. This is a very important change, and it is believed that it will be for the benefit of the country.

The second object of the bill is to amend the law relating to the appointment of magistrates. It is proposed that the magistrates should be appointed by the Crown, and that the law should be amended so as to give the Crown the power to remove them at pleasure. This is a very important change, and it is believed that it will be for the benefit of the country.

The third object of the bill is to amend the law relating to the appointment of justices of the peace. It is proposed that the justices should be appointed by the Crown, and that the law should be amended so as to give the Crown the power to remove them at pleasure. This is a very important change, and it is believed that it will be for the benefit of the country.

The fourth object of the bill is to amend the law relating to the appointment of judges of the peace. It is proposed that the judges should be appointed by the Crown, and that the law should be amended so as to give the Crown the power to remove them at pleasure. This is a very important change, and it is believed that it will be for the benefit of the country.