

STIPITUBUS MALABARICUS

1840

Aspergillus-like fungus, but the fruiting bodies are not the same as those of the other species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same as those of the other species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same as those of the other species.

The fungus is found in the same places as the other species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same as those of the other species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same as those of the other species.

The fungus is found in the same places as the other
species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same
as those of the other species, and the fruiting
bodies are not the same as those of the other species.

The fungus is found in the same places as the other
species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same
as those of the other species, and the fruiting
bodies are not the same as those of the other species.

The fungus is found in the same places as the other
species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same
as those of the other species, and the fruiting
bodies are not the same as those of the other species.

The fungus is found in the same places as the other
species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same
as those of the other species, and the fruiting
bodies are not the same as those of the other
species.

The fungus is found in the same places as the other
species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same
as those of the other species, and the fruiting
bodies are not the same as those of the other
species.

The fungus is found in the same places as the other
species, and the fruiting bodies are not the same
as those of the other species, and the fruiting
bodies are not the same as those of the other species.