

GYMNORHINA TIBIGEN.

Tsing K'ou-shih.

Genus Tibigen, part 1, p. 10, 1891, from the island of Formosa. Type, Tibigen, part 1, p. 10, 1891, from the island of Formosa. Genus Tibigen, part 1, p. 10, 1891, from the island of Formosa. Genus Tibigen, part 1, p. 10, 1891, from the island of Formosa.

The species is universally distributed over the island of Formosa. It is found in all parts of the island, from the mountains to the lowlands, and from the coast to the interior. It is a very common bird, and is often seen in the open fields and in the woods. It is a very beautiful bird, and is much prized by the people of Formosa. It is a very common bird, and is often seen in the open fields and in the woods. It is a very beautiful bird, and is much prized by the people of Formosa. It is a very common bird, and is often seen in the open fields and in the woods. It is a very beautiful bird, and is much prized by the people of Formosa.