

gness and number

Ince, R.N., of H.M.S.
these specimens are common.

Emminck who pointed out, in his opinion, the
is having satisfactory
of much smaller size
five inches, which
ings is also less, and that the circumstances
cing fertile offspring
ely concur, and, like
e.

the British Islands
, it would doubtless
autiful, and its beh
rch of fresh sizes
in its constitution
, its flight is bold
n flying to a co-

e of the Common
d.

eries of Pheasants
parison of which
subject.

reen; over each
of the face deep
; horn-like tufts
near the base of
oadly dilated on
to the centre of
eb near the tip;
iddle, then buff
out; feathers of
e back, rump
below which is
ple reflexions
be tip; centre
silvery grey;
e secondaries
ferent shades
into reddish
yellow; feet

feather; the
; tail buff
are broader de.