

Paradis sanguinea,
Paradis rubra, Vieill.
 Ibis (1859)
 The Bird of Paradise
 L'Oiseau de Paradis
 Le Paradis Rouge, V.
Paradis sanguinea,

As I am unable to
 so well both by Mr.
 liberty of copying the
 "This beautiful bi
 gious a decoration Bata. The list o
 and quoted by, many Wallace visited one which I have so ofte
 pending the capture
 "When I first ar
 there were plenty at people I had heard their cry. However convinced there wer hunter first shot a f nd species, Paradis
 down, running along the filaments in his gun, and was going to injure his plumag Another day we saw
 though other birds
 we were never to g
 loose, and many bi bird was seen to se across from branch
 sufficient aim to sh into the forest. Th were so rapid, and was only after sever
 most magnificent p it, either owing to We continued to h
 more; and as my o
 where there are a
 this journey, and le send for the men w
 my hatchets, beads
 would give for fresh one man ventured result of the first l After three days n