

ments on one tree, after which it ll cry, to be heard a long way, and at the last note it generally they assemble at certain times sistant Mr. Allen, who obtained machs but a brown sweet liquid, certainly, however, eat both fruit ate cockroaches and paya fruit bill pointing vertically upwards. eleton, which shows indisputably ble, but flat, and a little fibrous the sleeping-place of this bird, low bushy tree. At night they atch them alive with a cloth. In y them, in the same way as the brought alive to Europe, a single nd presented by him to the late

':—

oil-green when viewed from the bling the back; greater coverts f violet; tail fiery purple; head des of the face and throat; fore green in the centre, the lateral est of the under surface of body d with six thread-like shafts, wing-coverts black; bill black ; threads reaching 10·2 inches neck and sides of the same black; ers being of this colour; crown om the light; wing-coverts and their outer webs; tail uniform he auricular region; ear-coverts r bars of blackish; rest of under e whole transversely barred with eck and breast, and more faintly under tail-coverts; under wing-5 inches, culmen 2·55, wing 6·5.

ed by Mr. Wallace is in perfect ing in the chestnut plumage of autiful purple colour is being put e inner secondaries are chestnut, nly on the inner webs.

ve thought it necessary to give a of plumage. The second Plum n another bird, of the same sex.