

AULACOR

AULACORAMPHUS ATROGULARIS.

Gould & Richter del. &
Hullmandel & Waller, Jr.

Aul. gulâ genarumque parte viridi, dein in cærulesco terminatis.

General plumage yellowish throat and a small pat-primaries brownish bla-only of the external w-
of the succeeding feathnear the tip; under ta-yellow, with a narrow
near the cutting edge;
raised ridge at the ba-which is yellow; the
are also white; feet g-

Male.—Total length, 15 in.

Female.—Total length, 13

Pteroglossus atrogularis

Mitch. Gen.

Aulacoramphus atrigula

THE woods bordering the ea-this fine species, which difstrongly contrasted marking form part of the Royal Musin the collection of Prince Mcimens from which my figu-his researches in Peru.

The figures are of the nat-