

BLATTARIA UNDERWOODI

White-footed Black-bill

Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, Pa. 1910, p. 101, pl. 33.
The American Ornithologist, vol. 1, p. 110, pl. 33.
Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, Pa. 1910, p. 101.
The American Ornithologist, vol. 1, p. 110, pl. 33.
Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, Pa. 1910, p. 101.

The first figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the male plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The second figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the female plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The third figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The fourth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The fifth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat.

The sixth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The seventh figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The eighth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The ninth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The tenth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat.

The eleventh figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The twelfth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The thirteenth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The fourteenth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat. The fifteenth figure is a view of the head and neck of the bird in the immature plumage, showing the bill and the throat.