

BUJAMITE HOLOSCHIDUS

(Gymnophthalmidae)

With the holotype, I have seen two other specimens, one of which is a young individual, and the other is a female. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.

The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.

The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.

The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.

The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.

The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.

The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.

The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.

The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.

The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females. The holotype is a male, and the other two are females.