

PHILOSOPHY

of the human mind

and its powers

The human mind is a complex of various faculties, each of which is capable of a certain degree of development. The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning.

The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning. The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning. The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning.

The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning. The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning. The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning.

The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning. The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning. The faculties of the mind are the powers of perception, judgment, and reasoning.