21st Various striking circumstances in the Author's Experience

22nd a brief history of the life & death of some of those who came out with him

between New York & Albany (I found the name)

I had taken a berth in the cabin of our preceding towards it Auffean came up I suppose employed by the post, when I was going to Albany he examined my papers first Clap in the way then he says I instead of taking me to the cabin take me to the Deck the vessel was going out immediately so there was no escape. Such what a dreadful scene presented to my view as the vessel was just leaving the Dock the post was busy hanging in the freight on their backs against the side & bow of the passengers who were lying about in bags which would frequently produce dreadful falls & become perfectly useless in some cases but these I take were killed in the
