Dear Mr. and Mrs. White:

It seems only yesterday that I had the privilege of visiting with you but many thousands of miles and an election have gone by in a rush of scenery. I returned to my office yesterday, knowing that this letter must get off immediately.

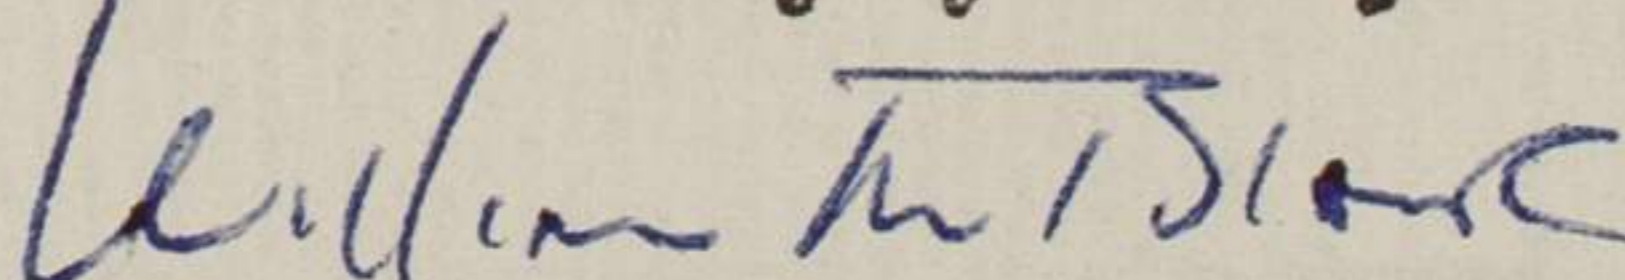

Enclosed is a copy of one story I wrote on Nicodemus. Another, I am afraid, has been lost in the shuffle of election news, etc. I also have asked our picture desk to send me some prints of the pictures and will forward them to you as soon as possible.

I also learn that President Johnson may have sent a photograph to the Reverend Wilson after it had been mentioned to him that Mr. Wilson once had written to him.

Please accept again my appreciation and thanks for your gracious hospitality and kindness. I trust that you will show this to your sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bates, and extend to them also my appreciation.

Kindest regards,

Sincerely yours,

William M. Blair
