

Oregon poster -- to arrive

At age 36, and a mother of six, Abigail Scott Duniway began working tirelessly for equal suffrage—that is, voting rights—for women.

As a suffragette, Abigail's life as a pioneer and path breaker took on new meaning.

Portland - Watkins photo

Abigail w/paper - OregHis #37312 Reel 501
1:01:55

Abigail moved her family to Portland, then a village of 8,000 people, where she started a newspaper. Her publication, The New Northwest, was outspoken in its advocacy of women's rights.