

Angela:

Here are the lists as promised, several weeks ago. The first is from the cards—you will notice there are some blanks where I could not make out the writing. Also, if you check the cards against the list, you will note that there are some addresses missing altogether. As invitations were returned as undeliverable, I updated the computer list but didn't mess with the cards.

The second list is NPS "dignitaries" we invited.

The third is the list of registered voters who were invited to an evening session.

Hope these are what you need. Until a lot more addresses change, etc., you could use these as masters and xerox them straight to labels.
