

“Substantial progress has been made in cancer control. One out of three is now being saved. With the knowledge and skills now at hand, many millions statistically marked for death from cancer can be saved. This depends upon prompt, effective use of all knowledge and skills... While cancer is fatal if untreated, or treated too late, early cancer is among the most curable of the major causes of death. Scientists cannot do it alone. Much depends on the conscience and the will of the people. There is a place for everyone in this fight.”
