

SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICES

The Social Security Administration has district offices conveniently located throughout the country. These offices have representatives who go regularly to other communities to serve the public.

If you have any questions about social security not answered in this booklet, call at one of these district offices or get in touch with it by telephone or mail. The people who work there will be glad to answer questions and to explain your rights. They will also assist groups or organizations in informing their members about social security through talks, films, and other activities.

To find the address of your local social security office, ask at your post office or look in the telephone directory under United States Government, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Social Security Administration.
