TEMPLETON MEN LOOK LONGINGLY FOR GOOD DRY PRACTICE FIELD

• Like Harry Wolter's baseball gang, Coach Dink Templeton's track men are far behind their workout schedule as a result of continued cold and rain. Because he has been unable to work his squad out normally, Templeton doesn't know what the year may bring but if he could only have Bunn's Hank Luisetti in the high jump and some assurance Edson Burrows would get well, he wouldn't complain.

Burrows, who was counted one of the strongest college distance men in the West, is suffering from an ankle injury received in a touch football game and may not round into shape this year.

Luisetti, of course, will be tied down by basketball until but a few days before the first track meet.

How They Stack Up

Here is a resume of Stanford's possibilities in order of events:

100-yard dash—Voight, Heiserman, Thompson and Williams. Voight is a veteran. His best mark is 9.9 seconds. Heiserman is a transfer from San Mateo and has done 10 flat. Thompson was a good freshman prospect and Fred Williams, though heavy, has been a point winner in past years.

220-yard dash—Weiershauser, Heiserman and Voight. The first has done 21.3, the second 21.5. Weiershauser was a consistent point winner all the way last year in this as well as the 440.

440-yard run—Kneubuhl, Weiershauser, Malott, Oberg and Slater. In this event, Weiershauser with a record of 47.5 is, of course, the best. Kneubuhl and Malott have both been under 50 seconds.

880-yard run—McCurdy, Malott and Burrows are the leaders here, the former with a record of 1:53.2 and Malott with 1:56.2. McCurdy is rated by many as the best half-mile prospect on the Coast.

Weaker Here

Mile run—Alexander, Beman and March.

HANK LUISETTI LEADS CAGE SCORERS OF LAND; PLANS RECORD SMASH

If sensational Hank Luisetti, Stanford's greatest basketball player, only knew what the scoring record was, he'd know when he had beaten it. But for some reason the record books disagree and all Hank can do now is to score so much there won't be any question.

At the close of the Stanford-Santa Clara game February 21, he had scored his 1084th point as a Redshirt. Of these, 305 were scored as a freshman.

He leads coast conference scorers for the season by a spectacular margin with 179 points. Closest competitor is Ball of U. C. L. A. with 110 points. He has three more games in which to gather eights points for a new conference scoring record. Since he is but one point short of an average of 20 per game, he ought to make it.

Holder of the official record for varsity competition is Robert Many of Lehigh University with 632 points in three years of varsity play. Hank has long since passed that mark. However, Glen Roberts of Emory and Henry, Virginia, has a four-year total of 1531 points of which 1239 were scored in his final three years. Why his record has not been written into the books nobody knows. Luisetti will feel he has really won the world's title only when he has beaten all records, official and unofficial.

To beat all marks, Luisetti must pass the 1200-point stage in the remaining games on Stanford's schedule and garner 332 next year. But since he has been averaging around 400 per season in varsity play, it is not the difficult task one would think.

GREATEST INDIAN CAGE TEAM HOLDS OWN PLACE IN CONFERENCE BATTLE

• Stanford's perfect basketball record came to its close in Los Angeles, January 29, when Sam Barry's Trojans overcame the Luisettiled Indians by a three-point margin. The score was 39-42.

Next night the enraged Indians went on a scalping spree and murdered the Trojans 61 to 49 with Luisetti in his customary lead with 26 points.

That evened up the series and conference standing. Thus, when U. S. C. dropped one of two games to California a week later while Stanford was defeating U. C. L. A. 42-40 and 67-38, it put the Cards in undisputed lead. This they bettered subsequently by defeating California for the third straight game for the first time in history.

Cards Well Ahead

Only three games remain—the fourth with California and two more with U. S. C. and all of them are on Stanford's court. The Cards need to win but one to be tied with the Trojans. Should they win the first two, the race will be over.

The first Stanford-California game was reported in the last Buck Bulletin, a Card victory by a 51-35 margin.

The second also came Stanford's way in spite of the illness of Jack Calderwood, the injury to Howell Turner, who had strained an arch, and the early fouling out of Luisetti.

With 12 minutes to go, the Cards led 37-30 when Luisetti committed his fourth personal and Indian supporters felt jitters en route. Sore arch and all, Turner ran into the game but it was Captain Dinty Moore, Art Stoefen and Bob Zonne who rang up buckets so fast that Stanford was safely away.

History Is Made

The final score was 50-37 and for the first time on record the Redshirts had won their second successive game from the Bears.

Their next meeting was on California's own floor and the Cards found the Nibs Price men at their best. Their defensive game was superb and it was only by the fast floor work of Luisetti that the John
