Cyclones Bounce Back From a
7-Point Halftime Deficit to Pull the Upset.

The Sunflower state split even last night as the Big Seven pre-season basketball tournament completed first-round activity in Municipal Auditorium.

A firebrand Iowa State crew edged Kansas, 82 to 81, in a stunning upset, but Kansas State trounced a highly-regarded California team, 88-75.

A crowd of 10,500 attended the second night program.

Jung Tough On Defense.

K-State's Jerry Jung, 6 foot, 11inch reserve center, again furnished the defensive power which got the Wildcats started. Jung came in halfway through the first half to put the lid on Cal's Bob McKeen, holding him to two field goals the rest of the period, and Jung himself threw in four straight buckets with his sweeping hook.

With that dive the Cat's went on to build an 8-point lead late in the first half, and closed the period with a 45-41 lead. They never trailed and never were threatened in the second stanza.

McKeen, who played almost the entire game, collected thirty-two points to lead all scorers. Against him Jung got 13, playing about half the game and Roger Craft, K-State's starting center, got eight.

Kent Poore, little Wildcat guard, led the well spread scoring for the Wildcats with 17, but six players scored in double figures for the Cats as they gave another well balanced performance.

California hung in tightly through most of the first half. The score was tied nine times and the lead changed hands sixteen times before the Wildcats emerged on top to stay.

made both for a score of 80-79 count, Iowa State still on top.

But Thompson put it on ice with two more calmly shot free throws, and Kansas scored its last goal just as the buzzer sounded, Ron Johnston getting it.

Only End Result Counts.

Kansas held the upper hand most of the game, but never by much. A concerted burst of points late in the first half saw the Jayhawks hitting ten points while the Cyclones were held scoreless. That made a 44-33 score, the only time the Jayhawks had a comfortable bulge. The gap shrank to seven points, 50-43, at the half. Kansas's last healthy lead was a 61-54 count with four minutes played in the second half. From then on it got tight.

Gene Elstun had eighteen and Dallas Dobbs sixteen for Kansas, tops in the Jayhawk production. Thompson had fourteen for the Cyclones.

It was the first loss of the season, for Kansas after four victories. Iowa State now is 5-1. The shot percentages were almost identical. Kansas had 37.3 per cent and Iowa State 37.9.

Duncan's thirty-four points set a new school record for Iowa State. It is the first time a Cyclone ever has dented the 30-plus zone.
