kansas state, playing without three injured forwards, jim smith, who suffered a severe knee injury in last wednesday's semifinal; gene wilson, out with a broken hand, and joe powell, limited to five minutes because of a lame ankle, got most of its points from center roger craft, who rang 19, and nugent adams, substitute forward, who collected 18.

it was mu's second title on three trips to the finals. they edged oklahoma, 44-42, in 1949. the victory also shut a kansas team out of the throne room for the first time in five years. the loss ruined k-state's record of never having lost a final championship match here. the wildcats won in three previous crowns.

colorado won fifth place from california, 69-60, while kansas was wrestling to seventh from nebraska, 69-66, in consolation afternoon games.
