"But Buchanan (Jim, of Nebraska), always hurt me more. He was tricky and when he did get loose he made 'em."

Howie Williams, former Purdue ace, now with Peoria, is Kelley's nomination for the toughest defender to date.

"Quick hands, good anticipation and smart," Dean summarizes.

His most important tip to high school players...."learn to move your feet on defense. Break the reaching habit."

"I know we're going to have to fight hard for everything we get this season," the new Jayhawk captain will tell you. "But I've faced that situation before. I was the biggest man on our team the year we went to the Class B finals. We're not conceding anything to anybody."

Like Doc says....."The guy's an All-American."

bulge over Kansas State in the semifinals of the Big Seven tournament in Kansas City, a game which the Jayhawks eventually copped 90-88 in overtime.

It was his two-goal sleuthing of USC's brilliant backliner, Ken Flowers, that allowed the Hawkers to grab early control for a 76-55 rout in Lawrence.

It was his two leaping goals in the final two minutes of play that pulled the Jayhawks abreast of Peoria Caterpillars, 60-60, in the finals of the United States Olympic playoffs, which the Kansans lost, 60-62, in the last 15 seconds.

These are merely the cold figures. Of even more significance are Kelley's unquenchable desire and unremitting hustle even in defeat. Here is a boy who made a highly-poised leap from a small class B high school to the big show without losing a stride.

He welcomes the stiff challenge and the fierce pressure of competition. He asks no quarter and expects none. He is eager to belabor the opposition as quickly and as definitely as possible and expects the same knockout try from the enemy.

Aside from his speed and spirit, Kelley's assets are these....consistently gilt-edged coverage of opponent's quick, dangerous little men; versatile scoring ability off the break, the jump or the one-hand set; exceptional rebound timing which allows him to pull his load in this department despite lack of physique; and quick, deadly, intelligent passing and playmaking. Even as a sophomore he displayed unusual poise, never falling apart when thrust into the clutch of games against the likes of Oklahoma A & M, Kansas State and Missouri.

Like Bill Hougland, the rawboned battler with whom he played in the Red and Blue backline last year, he plays every game as if it meant life survival. He can and does fly through every minute of every contest with the throttle open to the last notch, in the league's most consistently tireless individual effort.

"Don't know why I don't get very tired playing basketball," Kelley remarks with a grin. "You know, in high school I never could run the quarter without about dropping dead. Maybe it's because you get those little moments of flat-footed rest in basketball."

Kelleys "rests" aren't apparent to the naked eye. He comes out of the chute like Twenty Grand and pounds indefatigably the entire route.

"I didn't realize what a dumb basketball player I was when I came to Kansas," is another startling admission. "We were a running, shooting team in high school. I didn't know much about pattern play or defense when I came up here. I am casting no reflections on anybody because we did well with the run and shoot method at McCune, winning second place in the Class B state tournament my senior year ('49). It was just a different style here and I certainly had a lot to learn about it."

Kelley, son of Frank L. Kelley, a health department employee at Parsons...he commutes each day from McCune...nominates Flowers as the toughest opponent he's been assigned to guard.

"He had the best reverse dribble I've ever played against," the McCune youth admires.
