

momentarily losing his head, lovellette pivoted
 foot
 and planted his foot in the midriff of the reclining tiger somewhat like a man using one stone to clear a mud puddle.

the jayhawk led, 72-61, at this point, and the loss of their colossal center made no difference in the 75-65 outcome.

clayde's
 "clayde's a wonderful kid", said allen sunday.
 "he just isn't that kind of a boy. but he forgot himself for a moment. its very regrettable and we're very sorry.

said lovellette... "i just didn't know what happened. maybe i meant to do it at the time and maybe i didn't.
 i just can't explain it."

already marked because of his terrific scoring powers, clayde now will be carrying a double burden... in some fieldhouses at least.

oklahoma will be the first team to find out how much impact is left saturday night when it tackles the jayhawkers in lawrence. kansas will be putting a 13-game winning streak on the line, 10 triumphs of which have been accomplished this year.

~~other lid-lifters send missouri to iowa state and nebraska to colorado. kansas state entertains arizona in manhattan in the only non-1 oop engagement~~

don pierce