

F. J. Moreau, dean of the School of Law.	Many subjects of popular interest pertaining to law, including "History of Creditor-Debtor Relationships in the United States," "Barnmarks of Fraud in the Work-a-Day World," "Life of Washington," "Duties and Rights," and one of special interest to women's clubs, "Relation of Law and Culture."
Beulah Morrison, professor of psychology.	Mental hygiene, child welfare, personality development.
Bert Nash, professor of education.	Specialist on mental hygiene. General education subjects.
Clifford P. Osborne, associate professor of philosophy.	Has an excellent talk on comparison of old civilizations and the present social and political set-up.
Wayne Replogle, freshman football coach.	Athletics. Mr. Replogle is a ranger of long experience in Yellowstone Park and gives several excellent talks in that connection, illustrated with colored pictures.
W. E. Sandelius, professor of political science.	Political and social trends.
R. A. Schwegler, professor of education and <sup>retired</sup> Dean of the School of Education.	Forceful speaker on educational subjects.
Noble Sherwood, head of the department of bacteriology.	Public health and medical education.
W. H. Shoemaker, head of the department of Romance languages.	Subjects pertaining to the Spanish language and people.
F. T. Stockton, dean of the School of Business.	Is prepared to speak on Subjects in the field of war economics, industrial development, or business education.
N. W. Storer, associate professor of physics.	His talks on astronomy are absorbing.
E. B. Stouffer, dean of the Graduate School and professor of mathematics.	Educational administration, mathematics, and astronomy.
D. M. Swarthout, professor of piano and dean of the School of Fine Arts.	Music appreciation.
Robert Taft, professor of chemistry.	Collector of early day Kansas pictures which he shows on screen and author of the recent K. U. history.
Kathryn Tissue, assistant professor of home economics.	An experienced and accomplished speaker on foods and diets.
J. W. Twente, professor of education.	Speaks with force on various subjects in the field of human relationships.